

“Ir Derushah – A City Sought Out”

Inspired by Isaiah 62:12

In a world that forgets,
Derusha remembers.
Like a city lit in the desert night,
she is not lost, not overlooked,
but sought out—
pursued by the promise of redemption.

She is Ir Derushah,
a city God Himself inquires after.
Not merely found by chance,
but searched for with intent,
as one searches for treasure in hidden places,
as one pursues the beloved with undying hope.

Isaiah’s words echo through her name:
“You shall be called Sought Out,
a city not forsaken.”
This is not just prophecy;
it is an identity.

Derusha is not only comfort—
she is calling.
Not only sanctuary—
but a signal fire
for the forsaken,
the forgotten,
the wandering.

For in every heart that feels discarded,
there is a seed waiting to be found.
And Derusha declares,
“You are sought by Heaven—
You are not forsaken.”
